

January 2018

Dear Reader,

The University of Guelph-Humber and the UofGH Psychology program are very pleased to host the new psychology journal: Innovation in Psychology. This is a project that has been several years in the making. We offer our appreciation and congratulations to Dr. Masood Zangeneh and all those who made the realization of this endeavor possible. Furthermore, we would like to take this opportunity to welcome the journal's staff, editorial board, contributors and readers to the University of Guelph-Humber.

Situated in Toronto, Canada, on the traditional territory of the Anishinaabe Peoples, the University of Guelph-Humber is a unique collaboration in post-secondary education that integrates high academic standards with real-world experiential learning. We think it very fitting that Innovation in Psychology becomes part of the University of Guelph-Humber experience.

As an undergraduate journal, we give voice to quality undergraduate psychology research. As an open access peer-reviewed journal, we look forward to receiving academic contributions from a global community. As a publication of the University of Guelph-Humber Psychology program, we seek to bring innovations in psychology to the academic community.

Once again, welcome and congratulations to all on the inaugural issue of Innovation in Psychology!

Yours,

David Danto, Ph.D., C.Psych.
Program Head, Psychology
University of Guelph-Humber

John Walsh, Ph.D.
Vice-Provost
University of Guelph-Humber